

Whatsoever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth doth praise

God, the King, the Holy One, the Exalted, the Wise!

He it is Who hath aroused from the illiterate a Messenger from them reciting unto them His Signs, purifying them, and teaching them the Book and the Wisdom, truly they were beforehand obviously lost; as well as to others amongst them when they shall catch up with them.

For He is the Exalted, the Wise.

That is the Grace of God, He giveth It to whosoever He willeth and God is the Possessor of Supreme Grace. The comparison of those who hath borne the Torah then abandoned it is like the donkey that beareth bundles. Evil is the likeness of the people that contravene the Signs of God, and God doth not guide the corrupted people.

62:1-5

Translated by Brad Crawford